

Alumni Development -A new approach – that really works!

A brief, true story of a School Development office, one you may know, and an idea they had. It's a story with a happy ending.

1. They wanted to increase their number of active Alums
“Increasing the active alumni numbers is directly linked with our fundraising ability and success long-term”
2. They had a vision of a new, modern and engaging portal, that would draw in the Alums.
“We hoped it would strengthen existing relationships -- as well as appeal to alumni with a lower affinity”
3. They wanted to integrate and simplify everything they used, their Alumni MIS, all of the social media sites, newsletters, blogs, posts, everything and also tap into their vast archive.
“The concept was a ‘storytelling and capturing’ of all our resources and existing systems”

Presented in a new, easy to read, modern, style that would really interest and fascinate its audience.

So, they sketched out their idea and came to our company, SDS Group, after all, we do work with nearly 500 schools and have been working with some for nearly three decades.

We also have a highly skilled team of developers who have been at the forefront of developing new bespoke systems and solutions for schools.

The school is Manchester Grammar School, their director is Simon Jones and the end result of their idea, they have called, MGS-LIFE (<https://mgs-life.co.uk/>)

It has become a great success story.....

“The MGS-Life project has delivered in every respect”

Simon Jones Development Director MGS

It is delivering new Alums.

It has simplified their working,
